

Karen F Cornwell

Speaker, Consultant, Author, Podcaster

Karen's entertaining presentations are designed to make you think and spark conversations that allow people to explore different ways of thinking and interacting at work. Her warm sense of humor and story telling ability can make light work of potentially heavy subjects.

Her presentations, in person or virtually, draw on her substantive business experience and her uncanny ability to synthesize multi-disciplinary research into business concepts using practical, often humorous, examples.

Topics Include (Customized topics are one of Karen's specialties):

- ◆ The Power of Unlocking Gendered Mindsets
- ◆ Elevating Your Voice in the Workplace
- ◆ Unleashing the Power Inherent in Your ERGs
- ◆ It Looks Different and is Powerful - Women's Leadership
- ◆ Pandemic Recovery – It's not over yet!

You will know Karen's messages are heard because you will hear the conversations in the building or read them in your messaging platforms.

Expertise:

Karen works with executive teams to design solutions to empower your workforce, energize your teams, and offer your leaders the tools and knowledge to engage like never before.

She invigorates employees through speaking and workshops either company-wide, targeted workgroups, or employee resource groups (ERGs).

You can hear the results when your teams read the book and use the book guide to spur discussions. Karen has packages of books combined with virtual talks and Q&A discussions. Great for your Leadership Series discussions.

Her podcast, with the same name as her book, offers great insights as she interviews companies that are doing great things for their women.

AttunoVation

A professional services company that helps companies shift their cultures

Book & Podcast:

Drawing on decades of research and corporate leadership positions, Karen was compelled to write her book which discusses our gendered differences. It goes on to discuss how these differences can cause friction in the workplace and offers a framework for "seeing" differences as the avenue for innovation, growth, and engagement. Her framework helps both individuals and company leaders understand the problem and allows them to see solutions they may not have seen before. Karen's podcast focuses on actionable success stories that companies have taken to support their women.

Karen F Cornwell | 408-510-9740

Karen@AttunoVation.com

www.YouCantFixWhatYouCantSee.com

Karen Cornwell, an award-winning speaker and recognized management consultant, helps executives, leaders, and teams harness the power of diversity to achieve results. This helps companies to craft their cultures for the future.

Her Fortune 50, Tech management experience – spanning engineering, marketing, sales, account management and business development – coupled with a successful consulting track record make her uniquely qualified to identify and address where innovation is being stifled by gender and differences roadblocks.

One of Karen’s passion projects is her podcast, which shares the name of her book. She started the podcast, after hearing so many negative stories while interviewing people for her book. “I knew there were success stories, but they weren’t being shared. I decided to highlight companies that were doing great things for their women.” These successes encourage more companies to envision and take the next step.

Karen has an MBA, and a B.S. and M.S. in Engineering. She lives in Silicon Valley with her chef husband and their three boys.

Trusted by these organizations:

WONDERWOMENTECH
innovate.empower.ignite.

Toastmasters Leadership Institute

COO Forum®
Chief Operating Officer Business Forum

Global
Tech
Women

SEMICON® WEST

The WOMAN'S CLUB of Palo Alto

WOMEN IN TECHNOLOGY
SUMMIT

AttunoVation

A professional services company that helps companies shift their cultures

Karen F Cornwell | 408-510-9740

Karen@AttunoVation.com

www.AttunoVation.com